WE NOMINATE

David Eli Lilienthal, one of the eminent Princetonians of his time and for well over three decades a decisive force in shaping American "institutions" and national policies, who at a time of life when retirement beckons most Americans is accepting what may well be the most demanding challenge of his career. This 67-year old dynamo has bounced back into the limelight with The White House's announcement that he will lead a non-governmental American team to work with Vietnamese experts on long-range planning for the war-harassed and languishing Vietnamese economy.

The White House, praising Lilienthal's "experience and the high qualifications" he has demonstrated in economic development programs in Iran, Colombia, the Ivory Coast and Malaysia, said that the appointment implements the Saigon Government's request for assistance in planning an expanded post-war economy, including plans for the conversion of military installations. Upon Lilienthal, founding chairman of the pioneering Development and Resources Corporation, which provides both government agencies and private enterprises with planning, management, economic and business counsel, will fall the initial responsibility of assembling a "task force" of economic specialists for this staggering venture.

Lilienthal's retirement from Federal service nearly 17 years ago only signaled the start of a "third career" for the long-time administrator of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the first chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. He became an extremely successful businessman, served as a consultant, made lecture tours and traveled and wrote extensively. In one of his articles, following a trip to the Far East, he outlined the now accepted plan for the development of the Indus River Basin by India and Pakistan, a vision which brought expressions of gratitude from the late Prime Minister Nehru and other Asian leaders.

In 1955 this staunch New Dealer, the son of emigrants from Austria-Hungary and a native of Morton, Ill., and the late Gordon Clapp brought into being the Development and Resources Corporation. The inspiration for D and R, now engaged in major undertakings on five continents, was Lilienthal's who sensed the importance of putting the TVA conception to work in underdeveloped regions. For instance in western Iran, with a system of 14 dams on five rivers, a project involving hundreds of millions of dollars, this firm is carrying forward what one authority describes as "no less than the restoration of the fertile crescent of antiquity."

In the first two volumes of his swiftly paced "Journals," "The TVA Years, 1939-1945" and "The Atomic Energy Years, 1945-1950," Lilienthal, a confirmed diarist since his freshman year at DePauw University, has documented one of the most dramatic decades in modern American history. From his writings, as from his conversations, emerge moving illuminations of "our times" and a portrait of a remarkable and ever-forthright individual whose personal papers now constitute one of the major holdings in Princeton University's two-year old Center for Studies in Twentieth Century American Statecraft and Public Policy.

For his key roles in decisions which have helped shape this era; for his vision in placing broad-gauged planning as well as scientific and technological skills at the disposal of aspiring governments; for assuming a new set of responsibilities of prime significance to a war-weary world; he is our nominee as

This Is PRINCETON

IT WAS LIKE THIS... Goodbye, 1966. The year that will end at midnight this Saturday was an historic one for Princeton: 1966 brought the merger of Borough and Township public school systems into the single Princeton Regional Schools.

And many Princeton residents felt, with merger, that the town had taken a giant step forward toward the time when both Princetons would become single and unified communities.

As the year began, back in January, TOWN TOPICS speculated on "the possibility of a second referendum in the spring..." even though the 1965, had left deep scars.

The Township, taking the October defeat at face value, went ahead with plans for its own high school, hired a professional consultant to draw detailed plans for the new school, chose a site and held public meeting so that parents and taxpayers could say

WE'VE GOT A NEW SCHOOL! The new John Witherspoon School was captured early in June by this parade of happy youngsters who marched into the new building from their two outgrown schools on Nassau and Quarry Streets. For a review of the top events of 1966, see "This Is Princeton."

Just what kind of school they wanted their young people to attend.

"(Has anybody asked what the kids want?" queried one parent at that meeting, in a question which foreshadowed the kind of year 1966 was to become in Princeton: a year devoted to, harassed by, preoccupied with The Young.

Six for Three Seats. Both school budgets were received with relative quiet: the Borough's up by $330,000, the Township's by $178,427. The real storm began when candidates for the February elections began to line up for battle.

There were six candidates for the Borough School Board, three backed by S.O.S. "Serve Our Schools" group that had opposed merger — and three backed by C.B.S. the "Citizens for Borough Schools."

TOWN TOPICS, which had supported merger from the beginning, supported the C.B.S. candidates in an editorial, "This Time the Light Is Red."

"It is a rare occasion," the editorial stated, "when an electorate which made a potentially dangerous and costly decision to follow an isolationist path, is given a chance to reverse its thinking within the brief period of four months..."

The C.B.S. candidates all won: Mrs. Bonnie Wagner, John A. Buckland and Robert A. Lively. The victory gave the Borough School Board a 7-2 majority in favor of merger with Mrs. William Miller and Board President Graham Rohr as the two opponents.

With re-organization, Mrs. Sarah Strayer, a pro-merger member, was elected president and the machinery toward a second merger referendum, began to move.

The Lone Line. But Township voters also went to the polls that February day. They went — and stayed and stayed, in lines so long it took more than an hour for some voters to reach the booth.

The reason: an unexpected write-in campaign for Orlando Petrocelli had developed during the last days before election. Letters to Township residents of Italian descent and to Negro voters, had a write-in vote for Mr. Petrocelli and a defeat for the Township merger.

A hastily-organized telephone "tree" of P.E.A. members brought out last lines of voters supporting the budget. Mr. Petrocelli ended up with only 143 votes, and the budget passed.

For a time, it seemed as though a second referendum might have to wait until fall, and TOWN TOPICS observed "It looks like a cold spring and a long, hot summer." In April, 900 residents of the Borough signed a petition supporting merger.

Early in May, legal tangles were cleared and both school boards announced that a second referendum would be held on June 21.

A merger-study panel, under the chairmanship of Lester V. Chandler, made its report — in favor of merger. The Chandler panel rejected both a Township High School and a compromise called the Miller Plan, after the former Borough Board attorney, William Miller, who formulated it. The Miller plan called for a regionalized Borough-Township high-school, with lower grades in Borough and Township left "as is."

"The issues are very complex," stated Alden Dunham, who served on the Chandler panel. "There is no question, at least in our minds, that a full K-12 merger represents the best opportunity — in fact, the only opportunity — for the best education at reasonable cost for the Borough and Township."

Not everyone was happy with the idea of a second referendum after merger had already been defeated. "I feel this has been terribly railroaded," objected Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Jr., a former mayor of the Borough who had supported merger at one time.

The brook began to boil in current late May. Township released the report of its citizens group on a Township High School. Mr. Rohrer and Mrs. Miller took their merger objections to Frederick Baughinger, who had not yet left his post as state Commissioner of Education. Thomas Cook resigned. Mr. Miller's husband as legal counsel to the Borough board.

This Is Princeton

When it became known that a Township School Board member had made an inquiry of State Senator Sidle Riddoff about the possibility of legislation altering the balance of power on any regional board so that the Borough could not dominate with its five members against the Township's four, Senator Riddoff, to everyone's surprise, had gone ahead and introduced such legislation. The all-around embarrassment was acute. Senator Riddoff hastily withdrew his bill and the pot simmered down.

Goodbye, Dr. Strump. At the same time, the Borough's superintendent of schools, Dr. Chester R. Strump, announced that he was resigning to become superintendent of schools for Huddersfield.

A loved and respected figure in Princeton for 20 years, Dr. Strump told his teachers before he left, "It is hard to find the words to express my gratitude to you and to this whole community for the good 20 years we've had together."

"We have done our best to persuade him to reconsider," said Mrs. Strayer of Dr. Strump's departure.

New School Opens. Early in June, a happy and long-awaited event took place when Borough school children moved into their brand-new John Witherspoon School on Walnut Lane.

Moved! They had a parade to end all parades and the excitement could be heard all over the county.

The new school, still minus a chair or two, was the culmination of years of planning foreseen on the part of Dr. Strump and the Borough Board. It replaced two old and out-dated schools: Nassau Street — the University presented a $495,000 purchase check to the Board in June — and Quarry Street — bought for conversion into a nursing home.

"Yes" to the Future. The momentum toward merger increased. The Borough teachers endorsed it overwhelmingly. Borough Councilmen led by Mayor Henry S. Patterson gave it their unanimous nod and on June 21, it passed. The Borough vote was 1,530 "yes" to 1,253 "no." In the Township, it was 2,296 "yes," to 106 "no."

The new Regional Board took office on July 1, appointed by the county superintendent of schools, its appointed members — Robert A. Lively, Harvey Rothberg, Bonnie Wagner, Thomas Moore and E. Frederick Laschewer for the Borough and Suzanne Fremont, David Bruckley, Charles Jaffin and Herbert Bailey for the Township will be replaced in February, 1967, by an elected board.

The new board immediately took steps to peel off the sending districts that were helping to overwork Princeton High. Montgomery Township was told by the state that it had to leave — although an appeal may be pending as this is written. West Windsor and Plainsboro began to talk about a joint high school of their own.

Treats! Was there anything besides merger in 1966? Yes — there was even another school that made news. Princeton Day School, which had been through its own anguish in previous years, announced the appointment of Douglas O. McClure, and he joined the school and the community in the summer.

It seemed as though the kids had been waiting in the wings, changing with youthful impatience for merger to be over so they could move in.

SALARIES QUESTIONED

And Answered, Salary increases offered by the Princeton Regional School Board to its teachers were challenged this week in a letter to the Board from Mrs. R. E. Edwards, 240 John St.

The letter was released to the press, but since it had not been received by the school board, David Brodsky, chairman of the board's finance committee, was asked to comment upon it.

"The Princeton Teachers Association called on the school board December 19 to negotiate salary increases," Mrs. Edwards wrote. "During the meeting the association presented a slate for salary compensations. . . the present salary guide is out of alignment in comparison to salaries enjoyed by other communities. The school board is shirking its duty."

Mrs. Edwards asked for salaries "commensurate with teaching ability and with teachers' academic backgrounds" and added that promises were made during merger that better pay scales for teachers would be forthcoming to date no action.

"If no salary increases are forthcoming, will our school posts go begging for lack of good teachers?" Mrs. Edwards asked. She also said, "We as parents do not like to see this town's public school system continuing to lose good teachers because it refuses to pay competitive salaries; this is shortsighted economy."

Brodsky Refutes Charge. In reply, Mr. Brodsky said: "The assertion that teaching posts are going begging or that Princeton is experiencing a teacher 'exodus' because of its salary scale, is simply not so. A detailed survey of reasons for job changes over the last year shows only the typical problems that plague any situation employing a high percentage of women, marriage, increased family responsibilities, husband transferred, leave of absence and the like."

Mr. Brodsky also stated that the two boards began salary negotiations with the separate teachers' associations last February, continued them until merger in late June, resumed them on October 19 with representatives of the new Princeton Regional Teachers Association, and continued them all during the fall.

The teachers proposed a 22½ salary increase for a single year, Mr. Brodsky continued. This was followed by two board proposals which were modified in the course of discussion.

He stated that the Teachers Association, on December 12, rejected the latest Board proposal although the teachers' own salary committee recommended that the teachers accept it. At this point, the chairman of the teachers' salary committee resigned, presumably because he felt the teachers' rejection was a no-confidence vote and remaining members of the teachers' committee met with the Board on December 18 for further discussion.

Salary Scale Backed. The Board told the teachers it would continue negotiations on any aspect of the suggested guide, but did not feel it could go above a one-year raise of 10%.

We believe a salary scale built on this increase will be one of the outstanding guides in the state of New Jersey," Mr. Brodsky told Mrs. Edwards.

He added that the proposed guide is in the 95th percentile of all guides in the state, and in the 98th percentile of New Jersey districts for per-pupil salary expenditures. "The guide is structured to reward teachers for experience and academic background," Mr. Brodsky stated. He also pointed out that Princeton is one of the few districts in the state that gives teachers substantial leave with pay, to continue their professional studies.

Mrs. Edwards said in her letter, "I begrudge money spent for beautification of buildings . . . would it not be prudent to take some of the money spent on beautifying the buildings of the school system and delegate it salary increases for teachers . . ."

In reply, Mr. Brodsky said that teachers' salaries represent about 55% of the total budget, and have for the past few years. He said capital improvements for buildings are about 15% of the budget, but will rise to 25% this year because of modifications associated with improving the merged system and relieving overcrowding at the high school.

Teen problems were in the 1966 news in Princeton as never before. "We have no place to go," was the cry. The Lions offered $150,000 to build a 15,000-square-foot center, and Roger J. Carrington, patron saint of the young, tried link of a center back to 1930.

TOWN TOPICS "Question of the Week" repeatedly and anxiously queried teen-agers as the year went on: What would you want in a new Township high school? Where do you want a teen center to be? What do you think of long hair? Do you think the drinking age should be lowered?

In February, the high school PTA released a shocker on a making and drinking and drugs: "We do not have an addict problem at this age, but we do have socially potential situation that could lead to addiction . . . Young people are sliding into an unhealthy pattern of behavior which begins with smoking and alcoholic drinking."

"Why not help and try to understand a teenager instead of prosecuting him? I may be only 17, but," read a letter to TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox."

A committee of teens began with vigor to raise money for their lounge. They sold balloons and washed cars. They started a weekend newspaper, "The Changing Times." They did home work while 700 of their parents attended a series of Princeton High School forums on youth problems.

"The Touch" and "The Catalyst" Two names every teenager will remember from 1966. The first Presbyterian Church turned over a basement room to the kids to folk-sing, smoke, and drink and just "being." St. Andrews contributed The Basement of Truth the Coffee Lounge.

During the summer, Clay Street was plagued by teens and older teens with adrenalin to spare: vandalism, harassment of residents and general disorder prompted Clay Street police officers. Later, when college opened, there were clashes between undergraduates and town teen-agers.

Corbett's A full-time social worker assigned to teens? A full-time juvenile police officer? The Township responded by naming Walter Ennam's first full-time juvenile policeman. The Borough has yet to take the step.

Meanwhile . . . quietly, without publicity, high school students positioned the faculty for an advanced course in bicycling: 14 teen-agers worked the summer school for migrants in Cranbury; there were more than enough names to go around for the Kiwanis Club's new "Youth of the Month" of action.

Over 21, A non-teen-ager made Princeton news, too, when President Lyndon B. Johnson dedicated the University's new Woodrow Wilson School building in May.

The world outside the boundaries of the town impinged increasingly. Princeton residents supported or opposed the war in Viet Nam. The Rev. Robert Spears of Trinity said: Let Christians be foremost among those who exercise the vociferous of peace-makers and especially when mass hysteria begins to create an atmosphere in which criticism of war is made to sound like treason.

A February "Question of the Week" in TOWN TOPICS on resumption of bombing in Viet Nam could have been reprinted in its entirety this last week of the year.

But there was indignation right on the doorstep, too. "Pool Opening Delayed" was a standing headline. The municipal swimming pool was finished before the end of 1966, but not in time for a dip before frost.

Pool fees roused the citizens to indignant letters-to-the-editor in last season for a family was said to be too high. The daily fees were lowered, in response.

Township police surprised everyone by going to the public for a pay raise . . . and getting it, to a referendum.

Hot and Cold, Princeton residents . . . saw an Undecided Flying Object . . . read out 104 degrees of heat in the hottest July in a decade . . . waited in the January cold with 3,000 other people to see "Thunderbolt" and joined the 7,500 who saw "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" in its first five days at the Playhouse.

It was the year the University opened its new $4 million art museum and the fledgling Great Road Players were bombed by zoning laws. The original uncut "Batman," 15 chapters, played the Garden and a line translation of the Agamemnon by a University faculty member played McCarter.

Trinity Church-goers saw a bolter, "The Covenant," played in their church, and said a regretful farewell to the Rev. Robert Spears. Mr. Piznah bid goodbye to the Rev. Albert Tyson. The Unitarians launched a $300,000 expansion drive and the Calvary Baptists united with the United Church of Christ.

"They grunt and pay it, we grunt and collect," said one shop-keeper of the 2% sales tax that went into effect July 1.

Out of Nowhere. In the world of sports at the college level, the 1966 story was almost entirely that of the Princeton football team. Thoroughly beaten by Dartmouth in their first Ivy game, and not better than 2-2 on the season.

"THE PLAY OF DANIEL." As enjoyable in the 20th century as it was in the 12th, when it was composed by some unknown troubadour, "The Play of Daniel" will be given in Alexander Hall as a Twelfth Night present to Christmas theatre-goers.

News Of The THEATRES

"PSYCHODELICHTFUL"

"Sham on Wry" Back A special performance of Triangle Club's 1966 production, "Sham on Wry," will be given in Mc-Carter on Monday, January 2, at 8:30.

Great for a Christmas present for somebody home from college for the holidays.
The 50-man troupe will return to Princeton for the performance following a 13-city tour which will take the club as far into the vastness of the old west as St. Louis.

"Psychodeliclightful" come from a critic who liked the show when he saw it first time around at McCarter. "Sham on Wry" spoofs LSD, suits Madison Avenue and probably
out of the press release.
There's that kick line, at usual, slapstick, topical jokes, parodies and the usual opus and magnificent production numbers.

Milton Lawn is the director.
It's his tenth time around.
He has maneuvered a mad scientist, a wicked queen, a pack of mastodons and a troll who slipped through somewhere.

12TH CENTURY TRIANGLE

"Play of Daniel." So far as auditors can tell, the "Play of Daniel" was created by students in the Abbey of Beauvais in northern France, some time in the 12th century. This places it, roughly, in the Triangle Show genre.

The 12th-century hit will be given, fully costumed in Alexander Hall on Saturday, January 7 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at McCarter Theatre.

Sung in Latin, "Daniel" recounts the Biblical story of the prophet with a musical score
re-created by the late Noah Greenberg from a manuscript he discovered in the British Museum. A verse narration in English by W. H. Auden provides the story line for people who do not follow Latin.

The play centers around two episodes in Daniel's life: his reading of the handwriting on the wall for King Belshazzar and his survival in the den of lions. The spectacle includes the feast at which the handwriting dramatically appears, and a pair of lions straight from medieval pageantry.
In the cost of 30 are the solistes of the Pro Musica under the direction of John Walle, a complete instrumental consort and members of the boy choir of the Church of the Transfiguration, New York.

NOW, ABOUT WELLES . . .
Series Resumes. With the Christmas season past, McCar-ter will resume its film series of Orson Welles retrospec-tives. "The Trial," starring Anthony Perkins as Joseph K., and featuring Jeanne Moreau and Ron-Schneider, will be shown next Wednesday, January 4, at 8 p.m.

Welles' film, based on the famous Kafka novel, deals with an ordinary young man who is charged with a nameless crime by unidentified accusers. He has become the classic symbol of modern man in search of a way out.

Then "New Wave." Following the Welles, McCarter will present on Wednesday, January 11 at 8 p.m. Francois Truffaut's 1963 hit, "Jules and Jim." Organizer of the "new wave" movement in France, Truffaut was widely acclaimed for his earlier film, "The 400 Blows."
Jeanne Moreau will be in this one, too, as the quixotic Catharine.

Later in January, on the 12th, McCarter will show out the winter with its annual "Mirth and Merriment" festival. On Friday, January 13, the theatre will show Chaplin, Laurel and Hardy, Charlie Keston and various cartoons.

The month of January will draw to close with Sunday Berkeley's "42nd Street" and Gold Diggers of 1933. In a special double-feature, "The King of Camp." The two musicals will be shown on Friday.

HIS MAN OF THE YEAR? BUCKLEY: Alas Warren names William Buckley as the Man of the Year for 1966, for saying things that need to be said "at a time when these very things are . . . unpopular." (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Who would be your choice for Man of the Year for 1966?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Alan Warren, 44 Maple Street, ticket agent for Suburban Bus; William Buckley, Jr.'s said and done things which need to be said and done at a time when these very things are, in many areas, unpopular.

Robert Solomon, Cherry Valley Road, Graduate School; Woodrow Wilson School: I don't think there is anyone qualified this year. (Mr. Solomon's opinion was echoed by many others who felt there was no one outstanding personality in 1966.)

Mrs. Joana Stevenson, Shiloh, Md., secretary: Mayor Lindsay, because I believe he has one of the most difficult jobs in the world and he seems to be carrying it off with a combination of wisdom and wit, which is an effective combination and I think the reason why he's been so successful.

J. B. Shields, Aqueduct Road, employee, Forestal Plasma-Physics Lab; Billy G. Hanan, I think his leadership in the world of evangelism crusade in Berlin, which he completed this fall, was quite a significant event.

Peter Talarick, Rocky Hill Chief of Police: In the world of sports, I would say Vince Lombardi. All the championship teams he's had. . . he's really an outstanding coach. I think he's had five championship teams in seven years at Green Bay.

Ronald Norman, Sussex, member of the U.S. Navy Band: Thant. I think he's been working probably harder than anyone else for peace in the world and I think he deserves a lot more credit than he's been getting.

Joseph Fama, Somerset, student at Rutgers: Ronald Reagan, because I'm a conservative.

David Bourquin, 43 Wiggins Street, Theological Seminary student: Pope Paul. He seems to provide some impetus for getting something done about Viet Nam. His suggestions for a truce and his pressure for an extension of any truce seem to have some effect.

Hope Tassie, Carter Road, student at Briarcliff: Mr. John F. Kennedy, because he's my dad.

Mrs. Donna Nickson, Shady Brook Lane: The first person who comes to my mind is the Lord, Jesus Christ. He was the first perfect man. He was God's love, God's grace to us. And I know He is still alive today! In Revelations 1:8 He says, "I am He that liveth and was dead and behold I am alive for evermore." So that makes Him the greatest man who ever lived. We know He's still living; He said it!

Robert Stein, 204 Dana, elegant pastor and doctoral student at Princeton Seminary: I would have to say President Johnson. I think in a time of crisis he holds the Viet Nam situation in his hands. It's controlled by him. As far as our American viewpoint is concerned, I approve of our stand there. I only wish it were a simple win or lose solution, which it isn't, so I have much sympathy for the difficultly President Johnson is in.

Marlin Rahn, Morrisville, Pa., owner of The Nassau Shoe Tree, Palmer Square: Senator Everett Dirksen on the basis of how he air questions in Washington. He acts like he is working when most other Congressmen are trying to get to Europe or somewhere else and some junk. He's trying to do his job. At least he's in Washington, working where he is supposed to be.

Alfred Dabhalt, Trenton, mail clerk for the Institute for Advanced Study: The first one that comes to my mind is President Johnson. These are troubled times. I might not agree with him all the time but I feel he is doing all he can.

Dr. George Langmyhr, Rocky Hill, working for Planned Parenthood in New York: I would pick George Romney because he represents what the American people were saying in 1966.

Frederick Brown, Cherry Brook Drive, employee IBM: I think Charles DeGaulle. He has bridged more situations between the East and West in his relations with Red China, throwing in as of NATO, staying England in her attempts to join the Common Market, opposing Soviet involvement in Viet Nam. I'm not necessarily endorsing DeGaulle as the most outstanding man of the year but I feel he has made the greatest impact on world events in 1966.

Mrs. Frederick Brown, Cherry Brook Drive, housewife: The Republican party. All of a sudden, it has taken hold and it's doing something. It's on the march.

Joachim Beer, Hibben Apartments, assistant professor of Russian, Princeton University: U. Thant. I recognize his ability as a diplomat and his efforts in promoting peace in the world, especially in Viet Nam.

News Of The Theatres

The dramatic repertoire must also find room . . . for new works," Dr. Downer continues. "Up to now, McCarter has had all its eye in exploring the accumulation of past centuries, developing a troupe of players experienced in playing together, learning some of the hard facts about what might be called the expense of the apparatus."

Playwrights Nest, Ultimate, Dr. Downer believes, McCarter must play its part in fostering playwrighting talents for the theatre is an inseparable combination of the creative and the performing arts. If it has hitherto been too quick to abandon the past, it must now use that past to nourish the present, both for the stage and for the fledgling Shakespeare or Moliere.

Dr. Downer states that, since McCarter began its repertory performances in 1900, enrollment in the University's drama courses has doubled and in one instance, trebled. Dr. Downer also cites mail from students and teachers in New Jersey and Pennsylvania to show how McCarter's high-school performances have contributed to secondary education in the area.

STEEN TUNING UP
For McCarter Concert, Isaac Stern, regarded by many music-lovers as America's foremost violinist, will come to Princeton for the first time in five seasons on Monday, January 16, at 8:30.

VIOLINIST TO RETURN: Isaac Stern will give a concert in Mather Theatre on January 16 for the first time in five years.

He will appear as the fourth event in the "Music-in-McCarters" concert series, Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box-office.

Mr. Stern will play from the works of Tartini, Bartok, Schubert, Kreisler and Ravel.

PRINCE
Gambit (starts this Wednesday) concerns a valuable piece of sculpture brought back from China by Marco Polo which is the object of an elaborate plot hatched by an attractive pair of thieves, Shirey MacLaine and Michael Caine.

As far as Caine is concerned, it is a matter of the best bid plans going astray. In his fantasy, as he planned the heist, everything evolves smoothly and effortlessly, with Miss MacLaine involved as the temptress who is to divert the owner of the sculpture. In actuality, trouble begins at the time he arrives in the Middle Eastern city where the treasure lies. The caper bedeviled with humorous results, and a surprise ending.

Rated "unobjectionable for general patronage" (A-1) by the National Catholic Office for Motion Picture Ratings.

GARDEN
Murders Row (held over). A Matt Helm super spy travesty, with Dean Martin in the lead role. Martin, with his facile one-line cracks, his bedroom eyes at the various lovelies around him and his continuous self-rhyming about his daily gin quota, makes this color film a typical romp.
Along the way to head off a murderous spy ring, headed by nasty Karl Malden, he meets the grating Anna-Margaret in the role of a scientist's daughter. There are some wild chase scenes, a kidnapping and lots of gimmicks. The film is a sequel to "The Silencers" and has the same adult humor.

at the half-way mark, Dick Golsman's Tigers came back to win all the rest and earn a title for the Ivy title. The key victory was a fabulous 18-14 upset of previously unbeaten Harvard.

Princeton Day School also fielded a championship football team, one that is not a member of any league but achieved unbeaten status as it won all six of the games. Having taken its last two in 1965, Coach Dan Barrett's team finished the year with a string of eight straight.

At Princeton High School, the 7-2 record which Dick Wood's football team compiled was his best in five years as coach. High spots included a 23-18 triumph over Notre Dame, first such victory to be posted in the PHS record book, and the 61-0 whipping of Trenton High.

In the spring, Gerald Graminger's track team compiled a fine 9-1 dual meet record and went on to win the State championship. Hurdler Bart Bennett became the New Jersey schoolboy champion in the low hurdles.

Bill Humes directed the Little Tiger tennis team to a sparkling 11-3 mark, while the 7-5 season in lacrosse won the first time the break-even point had been topped in that sport. For coaches Tom Murray in wrestling and Pete Cook in hockey, 1966 marked the first year of formal competition in these sports at Princeton High.

The top achievement at the Iun School is in baseball, the Penn-Jersey League title falling to Coach Sanford Bling with a mark of 8-1-1. Overall, the record was 10-2-1.

Build! Build! Exciting new construction changed the face of Princeton. The new public library opened in late November to a delighted crowd of youngsters. The old library building, Blinnbridge House, will become the home of the Princeton Historical Society.

*We're Glad You Asked—

It's a pleasure to tell you "what a pharmacy" for "First Pharmacy" is a profession, and not just a Second. The pharmacist spent many years to prepare. And each day he's still learning; he has no time to spare. He must know all the new drugs, and how they're used. A physician may call and want all the facts. He must keep careful records of prescriptions he fills. He must in spare moments write checks to pay bills. Vendors are given by law to his care. And the responsibility is one he can't share.

Third: He must maintain a stock of drugs new and old. It's important you get what you need, he's been told. The it may be a year before someone again. Will call for that drug—it's got to be in. Fourth: He must know all the answers about wheelchairs and canes. He must have all equipment designed to stop pain. He must know what is right in the way of a crutch. He must know all about commodes, walkers and such.

Fifth: When the pharmacy closes, his day is not through. There are still many details he must attend to. And then.

Sixth: Just when he's home and relaxed for the night, a patient will call. He'll turn on the light—He'll note what is needed and get graciously. "It'll be glad to take care of that right away."

Seventh: We say. It's not just for children that pharmacy's there. They are important, but all pharmacists care.

For the whole town. They're glad they can be. A part of the health team to serve you and him.

It's Never Too Late to Help

From the 1966 TOWN TOPICS Christmas Appeal:

"Agency help must continue for many months for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. and their beguiling year-old daughter who have "set up their home again in a new apartment. This early marriage had been an escape for the 19-year-old father from a home dominated by an abusive alcoholic and for the devoted mother from a family in which the parents had been so self-absorbed that she never had any restrictions.

"Helping this young couple, who in all these years had learned little about the world around them, was like teaching flounder, home management, baby care and even job-finding. They have had a chance to do a lot of what had gone wrong and today share the conviction that they understand one another better and that their love can sustain their struggle for happiness."

Assistance provided now for the numerous cases described above must continue for many months for at least a year. It is never too late for those who found themselves caught up by the Christmas season to mail a check now. To date gifts received total $34,800.

Contributions may be mailed to TOWN TOPICS, P. O. Box 664, Princeton, or brought to its office at Mercer Street. Checks should be made payable to the Town Topics Christmas Fund.

As always, Princeton mourned in 1966. Two boys drowned in the canal and an elderly man died in his burning house.

Obituary columns recorded the loss of Dudley H. Morris Jr., Louis H. Gilbert, W. Fred. "Jack" Kavalakides, James "Jimmy" Lahey, H. Alexander "Hank" Smith, Henry "Herald" Smith, Burdette G. Lewis, Thomas J. Wertenbach, John James P. Ramsey, Mrs. Helen Benson, Editor S. Frederick W. Lester and Dr. Frederick W. Lester and in Viet Nam, Pfc. Benjamin Lee IV, age 19.

Looking ahead into the new year, we have a lot of things to watch. What will 1-85 finally be laid to rest? Who will be the permanent superintendent of schools? Will there be an exciting municipal election, and if so, will boys cut their hair? Ask us, next year.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR BOYS: A self-contained school for the control and rehabilitation of boys aged 12 to 13 will be conducted on State property adjacent to the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute in Skillman. The architect is Kramer, Hirsch & Cardichi of Trenton. Story this page.

PLAN SCHOOL COMPLEX
For Delinquent Boys. Young first offenders between the ages of eight and 13 will be cared for in the future at the new $3,633,122 Training School for Boys at Skillman. The contract for general construction was awarded last week to the Rand Construction Company of New York City.

The Skillman project is a training school for boys judged delinquent by the county juvenile court. Its goals are to separate the first and very young offenders from the influences of the adolescent offender and to provide greater flexibility in programming than is now possible at the seriously overcrowded State Home for Boys at Jamesburg.

Program objectives will be carried forward through small academic and remedial classes, arts, crafts, shops and a recreational program that includes indoor and outdoor activities.

Plans call for a complex of eight one-story buildings on state-owned land next to the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute. The buildings will include a chapel, six double-unit cottages, and a building combining administration, treatment facilities, classrooms and recreational space. Services such as meals, maintenance and medical care, as well as some utilities, will be provided by NJNPI. Other services as needed will be obtained from the State Home for Boys with which Skillman will be associated through a single board of managers.

VIGIL FOR PEACE
On Christmas Eve, in the townships that swirled around Princeton on Saturday, the day of Christmas Eve, about 20 persons stood in silent vigil on the corner of Nassau Street and Palmer Square, hoping by their presence to remind passersby of the war in Vietnam. The 20 ranged in age from

The vigil, held from noon to 1 p.m., will be repeated each Saturday at that hour at the same place. Anyone who wishes to join may do so, even if only for a few minutes, according to Mrs. Kent. The vigil is sponsored by the Princeton Committee to End the War in Viet Nam.

FINAL APPROVAL GIVEN
To Nursing Home Plan. As far as the Borough Zoning Board is concerned, Simon Fried, 34 Howe Circle, has its final approval on his plans to convert the old Witherspoon School on Quarry Street into a nursing home. However, title to the property is still not in his hands, pending further study of his plans by various state officials.

In its original approval, granted this fall, the Zoning Board stipulated, in one of several restrictions, that Mr. Fried obtain the P.A. Bannan property to the rear of the school lot and combine the two into one new subdivision. All existing structures on the Bannan property were to be razed. These included two warehouses, offices and a residential home.

At the December meeting, Mr. Fried's attorney, Thomas C. Jamieson Jr., requested permission to retain the residential building on the Bannan property. It would be used, he said, as a residence for the manager of the proposed nursing home.

The Board agreed, provided the house be used only as a single family residence. Their vote for a favorable recommendation will be passed on to Mayor and Council.

In another case, Princeton University was given final approval on its plans to build a multi-million dollar computer center to the rear of its Alumni Council Building, 31 Prospect Avenue.

The lot is land-locked and the University had won several variances from the Zoning Board last month but one unresolved problem remained: whether an underground cellar floor should be counted in determining the number of stories.

This month the Zoning Board decided that ground levels around the building established the center as a four-story structure. The University has sought a five-story classification.

C.H. Hill, assistant director of physical planning for the University, told the board that as a four-story building, it may be necessary to build stronger walls on the lower level to support fill. Heavier walls would make any possible future expansion of the building more difficult, he said.

The Princeton Regional Teachers' Association wishes to clarify for the public its present position with the Board of Education concerning salaries for the 1967-1968 school year.

1. The Salary Committee of the Teachers' Association presented its 1967-1968 salary proposal for the Board's consideration.
2. In response to the teachers' proposal, the Finance Committee of the Board presented its own proposal for teachers' salary.
3. This proposal from the Finance Committee was unanimously rejected by the Teachers' Association.
4. A subsequent proposal by the Board's Finance Committee was not acceptable to the Teachers' Association.
5. On December 12, 1966, the members of the Princeton Regional Teachers' Association voted overwhelmingly to keep open negotiations with the Board of Education. Negotiations have been, in effect, cut off by the Board when they refused to consider any adjustment of the amount of funds to be allocated to teachers' salaries.

With regret that this matter must become a public concern, we ask the support of interested citizens in our efforts to keep open negotiations with the Board.

ROOMING NASSAU STREET
 With Princeton Teachers
 "Some nights I just walk the streets. The first kid I took home was a 12-year-old. This got me started last February. He was living under the snow at St. Andrew's Church."

"I am doing this," says Princeton Seminary student William N. Kight, "simply because of my 11 experiences in Christianity compel me. I can't do anything else."

Bill Kight has taken Nassau and Witherspoon Streets as his main base. As he says, he doesn't look "like the kind of a guy who'd be interested in teenagers." Short, heavy-set, bespectacled, 23 years old, he has a compassion and wit that have befriended a number of Princeton's troubled teens.

"I just go out on the chance that somebody will want to say something," he said one morning at the Seminary student center. "If they say yes are right here. I'm enough of a clown to stand on the streets and say hello to people. I'm just open."

"The response is either to get very upset or to be open. You'll throw you a rough one. If you weather that, then they'll talk about some friend, something that happened two years ago. Then finally, they will bring up something that concerns themselves. I don't blame them. I don't talk about my problems with strangers."

Starting Point, in spite of a heavy study schedule, he heads down Mercer Street towards Nassau in the late afternoon or early evening on weekends, bent forward in haste, lout, coat flapping, and joins the knots of idle, restless teenagers most of whom he knows. Around 9:30 as things taper off, he'll return to the Seminary to study or go on to the church (St. Andrew's) where he heads the youth fellowship.

He's back on the streets at about 11 and stays around until midnight or 1 or 2 a.m. You have to accept people where they are. Work from there."

Flushing a drunken boy out of a doorway, he'll take him as far as his house. "At first I went in with them, but some parents just can't cope with it."

"I've had parents accuse me of taking a kid out and setting him drunk. It's very threatening to a parent when a church representative brings their boy in and says, in effect, 'Here's your son, he's drunk.'"

A Michigan Graduate, a native of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and a graduate of the University of Michigan where he studied sociology, psychology and social work, he notices a different attitude among teenagers, just looking back at his own high school years six or eight years ago.

"The kids have an honesty—more than my generation had—yet they're asking questions at such a level that indicates no foundation. They're asking why is it wrong to have premarital sexual relations. We asked only would or wouldn't we obey. They are asking what the rule should be—and why. In school, they're taught to doubt, to challenge but they don't know at what level and they challenge a cross the board."

Mom and Pop, "Parents don't believe the changes that are taking place, but these teens are very aware. Kids are pretty up on cybernetics, computers taking over. They are aware of a radically different

"THE MAJORITY of the teenagers don't drink, are not outward rebels," says William N. Kight, Princeton Seminary student in charge of the Basement, "There's no hold for these kids on weekends, either. They take it out by trying to run for student government, trying to change school rules." Slaying this pace.

society ahead."

He and his Seminary roommates run an unofficial, unpaid tutoring service for youngsters too proud to show up at the Study Center. He directs activities at The Basement's twice-monthly dances at St. Andrew's ("You'd be amazed at the amount of counseling that goes on across the dance floor. The atmosphere is conducive.")

He has been student manager of The Tomb at First Presbyterian Church since it opened early last spring. The Tomb closed during Thanksgiving vacation largely because the kings of teenagers attending became more than one man, could control but arrangements have since been completed to reopen it. He has

Remember Them—Even at Christmas!

It may be too late for Christmas mail, but this is the time of year when our servicemen in Viet Nam should be remembered. Mail a word away from home, they will welcome cards or letters from everyone who will take the time to remember them. A word of greeting. Messages received last winter, well after the New Year, meant a great deal.

It will cost only the price of a domestic airmail stamp—eight cents—and the Post Office has announced that it will make every effort to speed delivery.

Topics Of The Town

POLICE SAY "NO"

To Snow Parking Requests.

Whenever forecasts say the next big snow storm to strike the Princeton area are heard, the police can forget the temptation to call police to ask for permission to park overnight in the street.

Borough Chief Peter J. McCrohan said Tuesday at his news conference that the police will not grant such requests. He added that the police had received many requests from all sections of the town last week with respect to Saturday's snowfall, requesting permission to park overnight in the streets. All were denied.

"People just can't understand, especially those who live on a hill, why we can't make exceptions," he continued. "If we don't stand firm, the streets will never be cleaned because the plows work at night. I know in many cases it's difficult, but people are going to have to get their cars off the streets somehow."

other concomitant problem — snow removal — Chief McCrohan again asked for cooperation. A Borough ordinance requires that all snow and ice be removed from sidewalks within 12 hours of daylight after the end of the snow fall. Those who fail to comply are subject to a $100 fine.

Persons who go away should make arrangements to have their walks cleaned, he said. For the police, snow removal has meant years of frustration with repeated warnings to habitual offenders but little results. Chief McCrohan hinted that this winter, there may be fewer warnings and a lot more summonses.

THREE BOYS HURT

When Car Hill's Bridge Three young boys, all passengers in a car driven by Clifford L. Lamar, 41, of Lawrenceville Road, were injured when Mr. Lamar's car skidded into the Carnegie Lake Bridge on N. Harrison Street during Saturday's snow storm.

Two were Mr. Lamar's sons Sam, 13, received a possible concussion, and Alexander, 10, sustained lacerations of the face and a possible broken nose. Scott Richardson, 13, 22 Jefferson Road, received a laceration of the head, which required two sutures, and contusions.

Township police reported in their investigation that the road conditions made it impossible for Mr. Lamar to avoid hitting the bridge. The mishap occurred at 11:45 a.m.

Miss Edith Johnson, 19 55 Park Place, was treated at Princeton Hospital for a laceration she received when she fell out of a car early Saturday morning. Six sutures were needed to close a deep, four-inch gash on her scalp.

Kenneth L. Vannmarck, 22 58 Murray Place, the driver, told Township police that the right front door of his car flew open as he was rounding a sharp curve on Route 208 (Stockton Street), causing Miss Johnson to fall to the roadway. The time of the accident was 12:41 a.m.

Last Wednesday evening Amario Tranl, 40, 247 Valley Road, was thrown into a snow-bank after his small truck was struck by a car at the intersection of Valley and Walnut Lane. He sustained contusions of his left shoulder.

Richard G. Sowder, 22, of Endicott, N.Y., who was driving on Walnut Lane, was charged by P.I. David G. Wilbur with failing to obey a stop sign. Mr. Sowder was treated for a slight concussion and lacerations of the forehead.

He was admitted to Princeton Hospital for observation following treatment for a concussion, lacerations of the face and abrasions. His condition was described as satisfactory.

Based on information from witnesses, police reported that young Emerson had gotten out of a car driven by David A. Martz, 17, of the Princeton-Hightstown Road to cross Nassau Street and buy cigarettes.

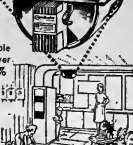

Martz, whom Sgt. Michael C. Nevalie ticketed for discharging a passenger other than at the curb, said he heard a thud near the rear of his car.

The driver of the car that struck Emerson was the Rev. Edward F. Hoater, 34, of Philadelphia.

sparked other Seminary students to an awareness that they need not always travel as far as Hartford or Philadelphia to work with youth.

"We've had a lot of parents come down to The Basement. Some say, 'My daughter can't come here!' For some daughter, this is right.

"Some of our fellowship kids don't like what the others are doing... these kids have no idea... there's nothing less alluring about smoking than a smoke-filled room, or about drinking when kids want from drink. A drink and your sniffling can result in convulsions, and these kids can be very sick..."

of the coffeehouse hours for Friday and Saturday nights at Trinity Episcopal Church. The recreation on The Calabam run by college students last summer at First Church. "The Recreation Committee is waiting for Trinity, Basement and Tenth schedules to be set up so that they can fill a gap. The YMCA is getting a new youth director. We have a lot of people who are concerned with these kids.

His roving ministry to Princeton's youth has taught him a number of lessons. "I tend to be a staunch defender of parents. When parents and children have no relationship, I can sometimes talk with the kid about it. This isn't because I want to keep parents ignorant, but I am working to get him in the position where parents can help. Sometimes parents get so reactive... tell a boy he can't go out of the house for six months... so he goes and does it all over again.

"The kids know I don't like their drinking. They have never asked me to buy liquor. Some kids I have no effect on. "It's very difficult, when there's nothing going on in town, to stop them. If I should tell them, 'don't get drunk, do something else,' they say, 'Like what? Go home? Not that!' They go over to the University and get the liquor and come back to Nassau Street in a semi-sober state."

"For Just Older." The teenagers he observes are looking for a new perspective, for someone who will talk with them. "This is why they like Doug Crettingham so much. He'll spend time with them. "More of the boys than girls speak frankly. The girls will talk about school, parents, friends, but never about sex. That's why some of the girls in the Seminary are doing some of this street work."

He regards the teenagers as equals ("I'm just older than they are and have been a round more.") He has stuck up for them when he thought they were getting an unfair treatment from the police and tried to be the voice of reason to both sides. His wit has quelled many a piece of fast action in the streets or bouncers. His kindred feeling for

WOMEN ORGANIZE
In Hightstown-Cranbury, A new Business and Professional Women's Club in the Hightstown-Cranbury area has been organized under the sponsorship of the Princeton Business and Professional Women's Club.
Mrs. Marian Kauffman, second vice-president of the Princeton group, introduced fellow members who spoke about the club's purposes and accomplishments on local, state and national levels. Also addressing the new group were Miss Alice Braveman, membership chairman; Mrs. Ella Geddes, president; and Miss Myrtle Hensor, past president.

A meeting of the newly-formed group will be held Tuesday evening at 8 at the Hightstown Bell Telephone office to elect permanent officers. Women interested in becoming members are asked to call any of the following after 6: Ruth Taylor, 448-1188; Rebecca Breuer, 448-2185; Elsie Liedtke, 448-2188; or Wilma Schulster, 448-1018.

SEVEN LOSE LICENSES
For Speeding, The Division of Motor Vehicles has suspended the licenses of seven Princeton drivers for speeding. Each lost his license for 30 days.
They are Joseph C. Carter, 25, The Great Road; Robert A. Tait, 24, 24, 147 West College; Frank W. Allan, 36, 218 Linden Lane; Ira Mehlman, 35, 3 Brunswick Pike; Fredrick H. Raab, 26, 854 Mt. Lucas Road; Thomas M. Martin, 22, Bull Run Road, Hopewell; and Paul D. McConaghy, 32, Holrow Road, Skillman.

VOLUNTEERS PLACED
By New Service, Volunteers are currently being placed in agencies and organizations where they can do satisfying work through a newly-established central bureau.
The Volunteer Bureau of the Delaware Valley, located at 602 Greenwood Avenue in Trenton, serves as a clearing house for volunteer workers. Its services are open to all interested agencies in the area.

Those interested in doing volunteer work are asked to register at the Bureau where they will be given an interview to determine their interests and abilities. Volunteers are then placed in the positions which they will find the most interesting and where they can do the most good.
Available jobs include acting as a leader for children's games and crafts, visiting sick people and helping with office work. Those interested in doing any type of volunteer work should go to the Bureau's office or call 393-7194.

PEOPLE In The News

Mrs. Sophia Hill Hinds of 227 John Street celebrated her 82nd birthday on December 9. Born in Harrison, she has lived in Princeton for most of her life. She has eight living children, six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hinds is the oldest member of Mount Pisgah A. M. E. Church, where she is a member of one of the Boards of Stewards and of the Missionary Society.

The March of Dimes in Milltown will be headed by William Murta of 11 Cranbury Neck Road, Cranbury. The drive begins January 2 and continues through the month. Mr. Murta is married and father of six children. He is acting legislative budget and finance director.

Professor and Mrs. Alpheus T. Mason of 8 Edgell Street have returned from a visit to Israel under the auspices of the Israeli Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Dr. Mason was guest lecturer at the Hebrew University Law School and National Defense College. He is the authorized biographer of the late Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis, leader of the Zionist movement in this country.

Emile F. Vander Stucken III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emile F. Vander Stucken Jr. of 95 Cleveland Lane, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force upon graduation from the Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Texas. He is assigned to Sheppard AFB, Texas, for training as a missile launch officer. A graduate of Blair Academy and George Washington University, he is married to the former Hillary C. Cook.

Dr. Philip H. Ashby, Professor of Religion, will travel to the Far East for research for a comprehensive study of the renaissance of Hinduism in contemporary India.

Dr. Herman Emlaw, Associate Professor of Slavic Languages, who will undertake a monograph on the literary art of the Russian author Mikhail Sholokhov, on whom no comprehensive study has been published outside the Soviet bloc.

Dr. Richard M. Ludwige, Associate Professor of English, who will continue the research and writing of a book, "American Poetic Renaissance, 1912-1922."

Dr. Arno J. Mayer, Professor of History, who will write an interpretation of the recent European politics and diplomacy, tentatively titled, "Europe Between Revolution and Counter-Revolution, 1870-1950."

Dr. Arthur Mendel, Professor of Music and Chairman of the Department of Music, who will complete an edition of Bach's St. John Passion begun in 1955 for the Neue Bach Ausgabe.

Dr. Harold Sprout, Bryant Professor of Geography and International Relations, who will pursue an investigation on the international and domestic ramifications and consequences of Great Britain's changing role in international politics since the 1890's.

ASK MISS EMILY POST
 About Wool, Warp and Weave. Miss Emily Post is a member of a small band of women (and men) around the country who keep alive the ancient art of weaving.
 "For most of us," she says, "weaving is a delightful hobby. By someone has said that art makes beautiful the things we deal with daily. This is true of hand weaving."
 On her loom this week is a growing length of exquisite, intricately-designed yellow linen destined for the luncheon table.
 Her nephew wears a vest woven in a rare tartan pattern, duplicating a scrap found on Culloden Moor, scene of Bonnie Prince Charlie's defeat by the English. She had come across a picture of the fragment in a Princeton University library book. "The colors are beautiful!"
Studio on Westcott Road.
 Miss Post is a warm-mannered, gray-haired woman with a gentle way about her, as living with her widowed sister, Mrs. Caroline P. Wright, at 90 Westcott Road, and it is here that the Princeton Weavers' Guild has its Weaving Studio.
 Miss Post, a former teacher of Latin and English, is currently instructing nine women in the 50-year-old domestic art of weaving. Last summer, she inaugurated a weaving school in the 1,000 Islands region of the St. Lawrence River at Clayton.
 Around her in the Weaving Studio, located in the basement, are looms of all sizes and types. One is a 40-year-old "counter balance" loom that she bought dismantled before she knew how to weave. She learned a dozen years ago, going with Miss Genevieve Cobb, to study under Berta Frey at the Fletcher Farm Crafts School at Ludlow, Vt. "When I came back, I knew exactly how to put that loom together!"
 The studio has jack-type Norwood, Macomber and Dorel looms, with foot treadles, and several table looms, all used by her students for weaving table linens, towels, scarves, and wall hangings. Utensils are Mrs. Post's 40-inch Macomber on which she can weave "yard goods," material enough for clothing.
 "Most of our weavers," Miss Post says, "weave simply because it is creative. Hand weaving, in order to pay for the time you put into it, has to be very expensive and this is something people don't always understand. A handwoven baby blanket sells for $12.50 (and that doesn't really pay for the weaver's time), while you can buy one downtown for $2.50. Many weavers go into design, working out samples for manufacturers. 'If you do that, you can make a living out of it.'"
Children Fascinated. Last year, the Weavers' Guild took two looms to the Trent House for a weaving demonstration. It's remarkable how many children are fascinated by weaving. We used one loom for demonstration and one for the children to try.
 The Weavers' Guild holds classes on Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9:30, but nobody goes home before 10! The advanced weavers work one night and the beginners the other, with enrollment limited by the ten looms available, although some students bring their own.
 "I think beginners should learn to weave before they buy a loom. There's more to weaving than just throwing a shuttle." The painstaking spinning (threading) of the warp on the weaving can begin evoked one woman to drop out of the course. She just wanted to weave.

Children Fascinated. Last year, the Weavers' Guild took two looms to the Trent House for a weaving demonstration. It's remarkable how many children are fascinated by weaving. We used one loom for demonstration and one for the children to try.

The Princeton Weavers' Guild began around 1933 when a small group of men and women met informally to help each other. "Most of the designers are men," Miss Post notes. As it grew larger, it looked up other weavers to join in and finally organized as a guild.
 Miss Post has served as president, as has Genevieve Cobb. Mrs. Franklin Martin of Skelman is now in office with Mrs. Charles J. Binnovich as secretary. There are more than 50 dues-paying members today.

TIGERS IN SEMI-FINALS
Face Villanova Thursday. A convincing 87-73 victory over Bowling Green Tuesday in the first round of the Quaker City Tournament at the Palestra, Princeton's basketball team will face Villanova Thursday night at 7:30. The Wildcats recorded the first upset of the tournament when they edged tenth-ranked Michigan State, 66 to 63.

Off the strength of their clear-cut 40-37 triumph over the Main Line quintet in the Villanova Field House earlier this month, the Tigers are now favored to reach the final round of the tournament. If they can repeat their mastery of the Wildcats in the December 6th game, their probable opponent will be Louisville, second-ranked team in the nation on a basis of both the AP and the UPI polls. Louisville is scheduled to face Princeton in the other semi-final bracket Thursday night.

READY FOR IVY TITLE CHASE: Princeton's basketball team, currently in the midst of the Quaker City Tournament, will begin its drive for the 1987 Ivy League championship with a pair of games against Brown and Yale the first weekend in January. Seated (above) are Al Adler '87, Bob Heuser '88, Robby Brown '87, Captain Ed Hummer '87, Chris Thomforde '88, John Harlow '88, Bill Koch '87, Standley are Art Hyland '88, assistant coach: Fred Holmes, trainer: Larry Locchino, '87, Steve Palele '88, Tom Cherdron '89, John Dodd '88, Dave Lawyer '88, Gary Walters '87 and Coach Bill van Breda Kolff '85.

Princeton should die and a 37-37 tie. In the remaining two minutes, a typical Tiger surge produced 13 points to the opposition's five, and the Orange and Black took a 50-42 lead at the half-time buzzer.

Chris Thomforde's all-around play paced Princeton to its first-half advantage. Bowling Green's effectiveness was blunted by the fact that its leading scorer, 6-8 Walt Pladkowski, drew three fouls trying to guard Thomforde in the first nine minutes, a factor that put the Tigers in a one-and-one situation at the foul line with eight minutes left to go.

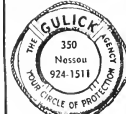

They were 12-for-12 in this department at the end of the half, and 19 for 38 for a fine 50% from the floor. Thomforde with 18 was joined in double figures by Joe Heuser with 11, welcome proof that he has recovered from the ankle injury that kept him out of the Navy game ten days ago.

Surge Gates in Tempo. John Harlow turned hot almost as quickly as play resumed, dropping in two quick field goals. Both he and Captain Ed Hummer joined Heuser and Thomforde in double figures in the early going of the final period. Bowling Green's outside shooting, extremely accurate during much of the first half, turned cold and Princeton's lead mounted to 68-50, a 9-0 hit then — with 8:25 to go — hit the high-water mark of 78-55, a solid 23-point bulge. That most of the first half, Princeton getting the first six points, Kolff, and the reserve quartet filling behind by five at 19-14 took over in force.

Usually loose and ready to play good basketball, the team

Sports in Princeton

WHERE'S THE ACTION?
Some Doherty Estate, Yale and Princeton hockey teams are scheduled to play each other Saturday, and the starting time is 3 p.m. Agreement exists on those two points, but thereafter, it's a question of what source of information you tap as to the location. The Department of Athletics, Princeton lists the contest as taking place in South Orange. The Department of Public Information declares it will be played in West Orange. Not at all, say the Yaks, it will be held in Chatham.

Actually, the need for accuracy goes to the Department of Public Information. The game will be played in South Mountain Arena, which pays its taxes to West Orange.

The contest is one of four which Princeton and Yale will play this season. A non-league affair as was their first meeting, this engagement has been arranged for charitable purposes.

A 7-6 victor in overtime when the teams played earlier this month in the Holiday Festival at New York, Yale has won four of the seven games it has played. All of its success has been achieved on a basis of its ability to score—the Blue has both goals trouble and a weakness in defense. In addition to the Tiggers, the Elks have topped Northeastern, R.P.I. and New Hampshire, while looking to Boston College, St. Lawrence and Cornell.

Princeton is still looking for number one, after losses to Army, Providence, Boston College, Boston University and Yale. Until the Tigers manage to curtail the insatiable quantity of goals being scored at their expense, they will continue to suffer defeats. After five games, they had allowed 36 goals, and while their offense has a good deal to be said for it, they cannot score often enough to erase an average of seven goals per game allowed to the opposition.

PHS FIVE BURIED

As Cathedral Hits 103, Cathedral field goals were as numerous as snowflakes Friday and when it was all over, 22 minutes later, the Princeton High School basketball team lay buried under a 103-46 score. The 103 topped by eight the most points ever scored by a Cathedral team.

No doubt happy to say good-bye to 1968, PHS will start the new year with a Tuesday afternoon contest when it hosts a strong Notre Dame squad. The game will start at 3:45.

Actually, PHS lost two contests at the Trenton High gym on Friday, after a surprisingly narrow quarter in which Coach Tony Borok's operatives held leads of 6-2 and 14-0 over the heavily favored Gael, they were routed by a 42-point second-period outburst by Cathedral—another school record.

The second battle was staged in the final period. Sensing the century mark was within reach for the first time, Cathedral followers urged their players on. To prevent it, PHS tried to freeze the ball during the final period and the slow-down succeeded in "holding" the home team to 19 points. But it wasn't enough: PHS was denied even this slim satisfaction when sophomore Jack Adams hit for points 100 and 101, with seconds to go.

As for Borok, it was not the season to be jolly. He headed for the locker room immediately at the sound of the final buzzer. Cathedral coach Phil Keener defended his use of the varsity throughout the third period, which obviously irritated Borok. By claiming "the first team needed the work, they haven't been able to play together too often."

Wood Still Out. In reality, Cathedral has little to crow about: it was playing against a crippled PHS squad. Ferment was the absence again of its big guy and captain, G.D. Tom Wood, still sidelined by an ankle injury. In addition,

PIS REBOUNDER: Rugged 6'10 lb. Jeff Franco teams with 6-5 Tom Wood to supply strength under the boards for the Princeton High School basketball team.

Marty Hines, a starter on occasion, was lost via a school suspension.

Without Wood's height to nullify that of Cathedral's star, Paul Fesko, who hit for a career high of 21, PHS was helpless. Fesko had 19 alone in that torrid second quarter.

Cathedral miss a shot? No matter. There was always Fesko or someone else there to tap it in unopposed.

For Cathedral the formula was about hit it or lose it. For Princeton it was either hit on the first try or tie the ball to the Gail's pressing defense.

Playing for the injured Wood, Jeff Franco had his best game ever, scoring 11 points. Tom Yoder connected for his career high—14, both hitting double figures for the first time. Rich Volk continued his steady play with a 12-point performance.

The loss was Princeton's fourth in seven games. It was Cathedral's fifth victory against two setbacks.

SLOW START HURTS
As PHS Loses to Swine, it could score but 17 points was costly Monday night, as the Princeton High School basketball team lost to Ewing, 62-51.

The contest was part of the first round in the Trenton Suburban Tournament, held at Princeton. Continued on Page 28

Trenton State College. The consolation contest, featuring the Little Tigers against Hopewell Valley, was scheduled for Wednesday night at 7.

Ewing could account for no more than 24 points in the first two periods, but that gave the Blue Devils a seven-point lead when the cold-shooting Little Tigers were held to nine in the first quarter and eight in the second. After the intermission, reserves Joe Kulley and Al Moring paced a rally that tied the score at 35-all, but PHS never managed to go out in front.

Although outscored in the third round, 20 to 16, Ewing still had a 42-37 lead when the final quarter began. The Blue Devils maintained their momentum, and headed for the championship game against Notre Dame, an easy 13-47 victory over Hopewell Valley.

Tom Wood returned to action for PHS, providing a welcome 12 points. Rich Vole paced the losers with 13, while Kulley just missed double figures in a reserve capacity with 8.

PHS virtually matched Ewing in field goals, scoring 22 to the visitors' 23. However, the Blue Devils built up a 16-7 advantage from the free-throw line.

PHS SKATERS LOSE

In Double Overtime, the final minute of the second five-minute overtime, the South Orange Hockey Club managed to beat PHS goalie Paul McGinnis for the third time to defeat Princeton High School Thursday, 3-2.

Deer Kill Is Higher

Some 700 more deer were killed during the State's special permit season this month than the number taken during the last similar occasion in 1964.

At Fraughton, the Mercer County checking station, 143 bucks were brought in for an age examination and affixing of possession tags. This was an increase of 51 over the 1964 figure. The hunters kill was recorded in Hunterdon County, where 399 deer were brought in to the two checking stations at Flemington and Clinton. The total harvest, with reports still being received by Department of Conservation officials in Trenton, is approaching 8,000—one of the highest figures in the current decade.

Although the loss was the "Little Tigers" thin in as many, the team has steadily narrowed its margin of defeat. "The boys played hard," commented PHS coach Pete Cook. "They're improving . . . we're coming along."

The Blue and White line of Henry Sommers, Bobby Linder and John Patton produced the team's first goal to tie the score at 1-1. Then PHS stand-out Paul Rice put the Little Tigers in front temporarily with a shot from the point.

South Orange's first goal was something of a fluke, Cook reported, "where the puck was bouncing around and ended up in the cage. Aside from that, we really made only one mistake."

Cook cited the play of DeGrazia in the net as one position where the squad has been hurt by lack of experience. "Paul made some really good saves," said Cook. "He is much steadier."

As it was, PHS was scheduled to play Englewood instead of South Orange but the formation did not appear because of what Cook termed "a communication failure." "Fortunately, we were able to get South Orange to come down at the last minute."

South Orange and PHS were scheduled to meet on January 11. However, since the boys have now played, a substitution will probably be made.

The Little Tigers next take the ice on Tuesday when they will be at Montclair.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED
In Dog Training Classes, the Princeton Dog Training Club has announced the winners in its winter class graduation held last week at the Princeton High School gym.

John Duffy of Trenton won first prize in the beginners division. His Miniature Schnauzer scored 195 out of a possible 200. Second prize was awarded to Mrs. John Trubel, 42 Montclair Circle, whose Corgi "Katie" scored 191; and third prize to Mrs. Harold Walker, 15 Hillside Road, Bassett Hound, 189.

In the intermediate division, the Alaskan malamute "Cheyenne" owned by James Moncur of Kendall Park won first prize, amassing 191½ points; second place was captured by Miss Nancy J. Miller's Samoyed, 188; and third by Thomas Brophy and his German Shepherd, 178.

GALLUP POLI TRIUMPHS
To Stay Unbeaten, Gallup Poli defeated RCA, 56 to 39, in the YMCA Research and Industrial League last week to keep its record untarnished. John Smithson and Kerry Klink with 20 and 23 points were high for Gallup, while Andy Koblar's 18 led the losers.

Ed Riddick, Joe Hirsch and Roger Madden combined for 39 points to lead one-defensive Hospital to a 65-47 conquest of Van Nostrand. Bob Smith of Van Nostrand scored all scorers with 22.

In the evening's closest battle, the Princeton High gym, Cynamid outlasted ETS, 48-43. Clark Lennon had 11 points for the victors, but ETS' Gary Rankin claimed game high honors with 16.

News Of The CHURCHES

TO OFFER DAILY PRAYER

For Christmas Unity, Christian churches in the Princeton community will unite for a week of prayer of non-denominational services in January.

The first service will be held at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church on January 18 according to an announcement by the Rev. Edward C. Henry, pastor, and will be a rotation at the Protestant churches through January 25.

The Princeton observance also is a part of an international week of prayer being observed by all Christian denominations. Prayer weeks have been observed in the past by the individual churches. Several years ago there was standing room only at a common service in Witherspoon Hall on the Princeton University campus, but this will be the first time the various denominations have joined in the churches in unified prayer for Christmas unity.

All Princeton churches are being invited to participate. Their clergy will be called to meetings where more immediate plans will be formulated.

CHURCH SERVICES SET

For New Year's Day, most churches in the Princeton community will adhere to their usual Sunday schedule on New Year's day.

First Presbyterian Church, however, there will be only one service, scheduled for 11 a.m. Family worship will be one-half hour in duration, and the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated at the end of the service.

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah will hold its New Year's Day service at 10 marking the Feast of the Circumcision. Communion will be celebrated by the pastor, the Rev. Luther H. Kriebel. A Twelfth Night service at 7 p.m. on Friday, January 5, will include play service and burning of Christmas trees, as well as entertainment and refreshments in the church hall. College students will take part in the regular service this Sunday at Calvary Baptist CHRISTIAN UNITY: Planners for the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, January 18 to 25, held their initial session Thursday at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church. From left are the Rev. E. Kubby Auer of Trinity Episcopal Church, the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Metcalf, First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Edward C. Henry, St. Paul's, and the Rev. Kenneth S. Dannenbauer, Calvary Baptist Church. Story this page.

Church, Hopewell. Communion will be celebrated by the Rev. Maynard F. Hatch. In Methodist Service, Princeton Methodist Church will observe "Student Recognition Sunday" this week. Three college students Steven Warner, Laurel Bain and Linda McCall will participate in the 11 a.m. service.

The Rev. Dr. Leon Gibson will preach His topic "The Man of God." A coffee hour follows the service.

COFFEE HOUSE OPEN At Trinity Church, The coffee house for Princeton teenagers, located in the basement of Trinity Episcopal Church, will be open this Friday and Saturday from 8 to 11:30. The usual program of dancing, light entertainment and inexpensive refreshments will be served.

TO SHOW TWO FILMS At WSCS Meeting, Film depicting some of today's social problems will be shown at a meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service at 8 p.m., Thursday, January 5, in the social hall of Princeton Methodist Church.

"Newcomer" discusses the church's ministry to people new to a community, and "The Captive" shows the problems of those living in depressed areas.

Mrs. Leon Gibson is in charge of devotion. Members of the executive committee are the hostesses.

BULLETIN NOTES

Christmas chimes that rang out daily on Nassau Street from Princeton Methodist Church were played from the voice, Mr. Romeo, who discovered the theft early Monday morning, said. He closed the restaurant at 9:30 Saturday evening.

Another breaking and enter was reported last week by Matt Glinka, manager of the Cottage Club, 51 Prospect Avenue. He told Borough police that cigarette and coke machines located in the basement of the club had been broken into. About 40 cents was taken from the coke machine and several packages of cigarettes from the second machine.

Two apartments in a building at 161 Irving Street were collected last week by Matt Glinka, manager of the Cottage Club, 51 Prospect Avenue. He told Borough police that cigarette and coke machines located in the basement of the club had been broken into. About 40 cents was taken from the coke machine and several packages of cigarettes from the second machine.

Police said both locks had been broken into with a celluloid or some similar thin instrument.

Robert T. Mellinger, 31 Evergreen Circle, listed four husbands valued last week from his car which was been parked Thursday between 9 and 11 p.m. at the Chambers Street lot.

DEADLINE NEARS

For School Election, Four candidates voted last week in the only school board contest that has developed so far. The deadline for filing petitions is this Friday at 4 p.m.

The contest is in the Township, where Orlando Petrocelli, Carl Sommerstein, William Atthrop S. Pike and Herbert Bailey have all filed for the Township chairmanship. Terms on the Regional School Board, Mr. Bailey is the only incumbent.

Howard Fox, Township resident, has taken out a petition but had not returned it to the Township School Board secretary at press time.

There will be no contest in the Borough. All five school board members are running in the Borough, will run for reelection to the Region-4 Board. They are Robert A. Lively, E. Frederick Lasechew, Harvey Rothberg, Bonnie Wagner and Thomas Moore.

MEETINGS AHEAD

For School Board, Princeton's Regional Board of Education will hold a series of public meetings during January in the high school. All will be held at 8 p.m.

Tuesday, January 2, The new Middle School Reorganization plan, presented at the December 19 meeting, will be discussed at this meeting. This plan proposes that all sixth, seventh and eighth grade students attend Community Park and Valley Road schools, John Witherspoon School would become the K-5 school for children in that neighborhood (including many who now attend Community Park).

The tentative budget will also be formally adopted at this meeting.

Tuesday, January 10, The salary proposal made by the board to the Princeton Regional Teachers Association will be open for public discussion at this meeting.

Tuesday, January 24, The public hearing on the budget and its final approval are scheduled for this, the board's regular monthly meeting.

NEW ROLE TO BEGIN

For Historic House, Eighteenth Century Bainbridge House on Nassau Street, home of the Princeton Public Library for 36 years, will become the headquarters of the Historical Society of Princeton next Tuesday.

The historic building is named for the commander of the frigate "Constitution," Commodore John Bainbridge, born there in 1774. In a brief ceremony, President Robert F. Goleen of Princeton University, which has owned the property for 10 years, presented the keys to Bruce Freese, acting president of the society, in exchange for the token annual "rent" of $1. The day

How Many Mothers Work?

The Princeton Regional Board of Education has found that 26.7% of the mothers of children in grades kindergarten through 5th grade and 36.2% of the mothers of grades 6, 7 and 8, are employed.

The survey, reported by Acting Superintendent John McKenna, has implications, he said, for the parent-teacher conference program, particularly for the middle grades.

The figures are: Kindergarten 14.6% First Grade 27.0 Second Grade 23.7 Third Grade 21.0 Fourth Grade 25.0 Fifth Grade 29.0 Sixth Grade 41.0 Seventh Grade 33.2 Eighth Grade 35.0

also marks the 190th anniversary of the Battle of Princeton.

Among those present will be Princeton Borough Mayor Henry Zatterstrom, members of the Borough Council, representatives of the Princeton Township Committee, officers and trustees of the Historical Society.

Bainbridge House was built by a member of the Stockton family and was the home of their descendants for many years. Plans for the landmark include restoring and refurbishing the interior, furnishing some of the rooms in period style and the establishing of resources and genealogical libraries.

This is the first headquarters for the 288-year-old Society. It will serve as a focal point for preservation of Princeton history.

STUDY SERIES PLANNED

By Princeton Historical Society, Study of contemporary Jewish writers will be the topic of future Hadassah memory lectures. The first meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, January 4, at the home of Mrs. Marvin Soffen, 93 Longview Drive.

Mrs. Joseph Witherspoon, vice-president for education will chair the meeting. A panel

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH: Proposed alterations include classrooms, a kitchen and assembly rooms in an attached addition as well as a face-lifting for the main building. The three roof levels for the new front are designed to suggest the Trinity, with the bellis structure giving the effect of a hazing girder and integrating the building with natural plant growth. The Rev. Edward Smith, pastor, has announced that Charles Greenwald, committee chairman and Mrs. Grace Brown will head the fund drive. The architect is George F. Johnson of Lebanon, with Nat Kanaw of New Hope, Pa., consultant.
